Altering a Great Painting.

In one of the principal colleges in Paris there was once a picture showing Napoleon Bonaparte, attended by several of his officers, paying a visit to a plague hospital in Egypt. After his death some enterprising artist of Bourbon tendencies and with no fear of committing anachronisms converted the figure of the "Little Corporal" into that of Christ and transformed the attendant generals into apostles. By a strange oversight he neglected to alter every portion of the painting, and the Saviour appeared with a pair of boots such as were worn by the great general.—Detroit Free Press.

Squirrel Hunts. Squirrel hunts on the roundup plan, after the manner of the jack rabbit hunts in the Dakotas, are becoming very popular in Washington state. A party is formed and either works as one band or divides into two sections, the section bringing in the fewest tails paying a forfeit of a dinner. At a squirrel hunt a few days ago the vicinity of Tekoa a party of eleven persons brought in over 500 squirrel tails as the result of the day's sport.—New York Sun.

A Preventive. "My boy never heard his father swear," remarked a Cass avenue lady to a caller the other day. "Indeed; how does that happen?" "Well, just as soon as he was old enough to understand anything I bought a bushel of collar buttons and have always kept them on his father's dressing case."—Detroit Free Press.

The Bee's Market Basket. Every bee carries his market basket around his hind legs. Any one examining the body of a bee through a microscope will observe that on the hind legs of a bee there is a fringe of stiff hairs on the surface, the hairs approaching each other at the tips so as to form a sort of cage. This is the bee's basket.—Philadelphia Record.

The Old Fashioned Corncob Pipe. The old fashioned corncob pipe was not the spick and span pipe of the factories, glistening with varnish and carefully smoothed with a file. The old time pipemaker chose a large and sound cob, as nearly as possible cylindrical in shape, cut off the lower three inches and with a sharp penknife shaved the outer surface down to a hard, smooth face. He then cut the bottom and top smooth, thus considerably shortening the piece, carefully hollowed the bowl, and a reed stem placed in a small hole near the bottom completed the pipe. Such a pipe could be fashioned in a half hour, and it served its purpose admirably.—New York Sun.

A fellow received a deserved thrashing yesterday for insulting respectable women. He had chased a young girl, ran after a buggy containing two ladies and being unable to catch them threw stones at them, and later while two ladies with a gentleman escort were making purchases at Manning's store the former were insulted by the brute, when their escort turned loose on him and gave him a severe beating. The punishment was not a bit too severe, as men of this ilk should be taught their place. To Whom It May Concern. My wife, Irene G. A PORTRAIT OF ITS FATHER.

The State University Presented With a Portrait of Its Benefactor, William M. Stewart.

Yesterday afternoon was the occasion of a pleasant affair at the State University. Before a large body of students representing the flower of Nevada's youth, the University was presented with a large portrait of Senator Wm. M. Stewart, who is recognized not only as a benefactor but as the foster father of Nevada's highest educational institution.

The presentation was made to the faculty and students in the large hall in the Normal building. Yesterday afternoon President Jones called the students and assembled professors to order, and in a most and appropriate speech reviewing the present prosperous condition of the school and offering congratulations on its auspicious opening, introduced Mr. Chas. J. Kappler, who, on behalf of the Senator, presented the portrait to the University.

Mr. Kappler, who is an adopted son of the silver State, is a most pleasing speaker. His remarks were thoughtful, elegant in diction and eloquent in delivery. When years of experience have been added to his manifest ability he will be a speaker of more than ordinary ability. His speech was received with loud and enthusiastic applause, and as the picture of the intellectual and familiar face of the Silver Plumed Knight of Nevada and young men's champion was unveiled the applause was deafening. Mr. Kappler said:

Mr. President, Professors and Students of the State University of Nevada:—An honor and a privilege have been conferred upon me by a distinguished citizen of this State, a benefactor and well wisher of this University, the Hon. Wm. M. Stewart, to present to you in his name and with his compliments and respects, the framed photograph of himself which stands before us. In discharging the pleasurable duty thus imposed upon me it will not be out of place, I think, to dwell at short length upon the great interest exhibited and the sincere solicitude and regard expressed by Senator Stewart for the State University.

It is Senator Stewart's ardent wish that this University should become a credit and an honor to the State. It is his earnest and fondest hope that it should rise still further in its capacity for the education of the youth of Nevada in the higher branches of learning and the inculcation of knowledge necessary to business and the profession. If there is one thing more than another in which Senator Stewart takes a deeper interest, it is this University. He sees it in the intellectual development of the youth of the State. He realizes its influence and weight in fitting the children of Nevada for citizenship, to follow good and honorable lines and to pursue useful trades and vocations. He appreciates that it is of the highest importance that the University should be of the best standard, and that it should possess all the concomitants and essentials necessary to enable it to rise to a high degree in the estimation of the people of the State whose children are to be educated here. His concern for the University is of a fatherly and philanthropic character. What ever can be done to make it successful and qualified to educate the youth of the State in the higher studies will meet with his warmest consideration and unwavering support.

Senator Stewart's solicitude for the welfare of the University was shown, when chiefly through his efforts a law was passed by the State Legislature in 1887 placing the institution under the management and control of the Board of Regents as now constituted. The condition and management of the University before this law was passed was unsatisfactory. The change was looked upon with favor and approbation, and it has proved exceedingly beneficial. This change, however, was not secured without much difficulty. The Board of Regents, by their wise management, have added largely to the success of the University.

It is Senator Stewart's aim to elevate the University in every branch of learning and make it equal to those of other States. It is the only seat of learning in the State, and it ought to be made the pride of the people. Schools and Universities are necessary adjuncts in the civilization and enlightenment of mankind. Without them we would remain dull and stationary in intellect instead of becoming bright and progressive; without them we would know nothing of the higher society incident to civilization and progress; without them we would still be on a level of equality with the illiterate and ignorant savage tribes which roam the desert and mock civilization. Schools and Universities should be nurtured and guarded as carefully as a fond and affectionate mother does her child. It is only where institutions such as these are maintained and fostered that we find brilliant minds, useful trades and professions, wonderful inventions, good governments, happy homes, Christian influence and a sense of humanity. The people of Nevada ought to be proud of this University. It is worthy of their self concern, for it is solely for the instruction, advancement and benefit of their children and children's children.

Since Senator Stewart entered public life in 1887 he has accomplished much good for the University. In the Fifth Congress he aided largely in securing the passage of the Hatch bill, so-called, appropriating $15,000 for the support and maintenance of agricultural colleges connected with the Universities in the various States. This appropriation is made annually for the dissemination of knowledge in agricultural pursuits and the mechanic arts and for experimentation at the various colleges. This $15,000 is now being received by this University.

Through Senator Stewart's efforts a military officer was stationed at the University to instruct the students in military tactics. The law relating to the assignment of military officers, as it stood when Senator Stewart went to Washington in 1887, provided for only forty of these officers, and they were apportioned to the various States

According to population. Under these circumstances it would have been out of the question to secure one for the University without having the law amended, our population being so small and limited as compared with other States. In order to obtain some influence in having the law modified Senator Stewart secured a place on the Committee on Education and Labor, which committee had such legislation in charge, and worked earnestly for the recommendation of a bill assigning a military officer to each agricultural college. He was successful in his efforts and a bill for that purpose was reported by the committee to the Senate. The bill passed the Senate and also the House of Representatives, and became a law, since which time a military officer has been stationed at the University, with what credit and benefit to that institution you yourselves are the best judges.

Just previous to the adjournment of Congress the present military officer, Lieutenant Neill, as you are probably aware, was ordered by the War Department to join his regiment in Walla Walla, Washington. Lieutenant Neill, I know, has made a good record at the University. He is very much liked, and the regents, students and others are attached to him. This order from the War Department changing his station dismayed some of your best citizens, they fearing that the services of a military instructor would be lost to the University. The Senator was telegraphed by several prominent citizens with respect to the matter. He immediately visited the War Department, had a consultation with General Schofield, and afterwards with Secretary Atkins, and urged the Lieutenant's retention. The result of his mission was a telegram to Lieutenant Neill revoking the former order. The Senator was as much pleased as yourselves at this happy outcome of the question, he fully realizing how much good the military instructor is doing the University.

In the Fifty-First Congress a bill was passed making further appropriations for the agricultural college and experimental station connected with the University, and which placed the University on a sound and substantial foundation for the future. Senator Stewart's participation in securing the passage of this bill was very important. This law provides that there shall be appropriated out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, arising from the sales of public lands to be paid to each State and Territory for the more complete endowment and maintenance of colleges for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts, now established or which may hereafter be established, the sum of $15,000 for the year ending June 30, 1890, and an annual increase of the amount of such appropriation thereafter for ten years by an additional sum of $1,000 over the preceding year; and at the end of ten years the permanent annual appropriation shall be $25,000; which sum of money shall be applied only to instruction in agriculture, the mechanic arts, the English language, and the various branches of mathematical, physical, natural and economic science, with special reference to their applications in the industries of life, and to the facilities of such instruction. This appropriation will enable the University to add many new features to its curriculum. This endowment of $25,000 after ten years, together with the $15,000 appropriated at the previous Congress, which is also an annual appropriation and entirely separate from the latter sum, will swell the annual appropriations made by the general Government for the University to $40,000. This sum of money received annually will be very useful and of great assistance to the University in making a record for itself and attaining a high standing among institutions of its character.

Senator Stewart has shown his interest in the University in a number of other ways, minor ways, perhaps, but nevertheless welcome. He never fails to send all kinds of books, publications, speeches, maps, etc., to the library of the University, and a glance at the books in the library will show how many have been contributed by him. He also sees that plants, shrubs, seed and trees for the ornamentation of the grounds are annually sent to the University.

Nothing affords Senator Stewart so much pleasure as the University and give the students some good advice and note the progress they are making in acquiring an education. He loves children, and on such occasions he is filled with joy. The memory of the struggle Senator Stewart underwent in his youth to obtain an education acts as an incentive to him to do all in his power to make the path of the children of his State in educating themselves as smooth as possible. Since he was thirteen years of age he was compelled to rely upon his own exertions for support and education. He passed many months in hard work on the farm, and the proceeds of his labor were expended in gaining knowledge.

In 1850 he left his home in the East and followed the gold hunters to California. He spent many days with the pick and shovel seeking the precious metals. After acquiring some wealth he devoted himself to the study of law. His rise in his chosen profession was gradual but sure. His reputation was made step by step. Such reputations are enduring and not ephemeral. He became one of the leading and most eminent attorneys on the Pacific Coast. He was Attorney General of the State of California. His connection with the settlement of the ownership of the Comstock Lode was conspicuous. He was the originator of the "one lode" theory, and his theory was sustained by the courts. He was a leading member of the Constitutional Convention of the Territory of Nevada in 1863, and in 1864, when Nevada was admitted into the Union, he was the first Senator elected by the new State. He served two terms in the Senate and then retired to private life. He was very active in Congress, and was identified with all the important legislation enacted during his two terms.

Since his re-election in 1887 he has made himself heard all over the United States. The conspicuous part he has taken in the affairs of the Senate and in keeping the silver question to the front has made his name known in every town and hamlet throughout the land, and the name of Nevada accompanied it. He is one of our most prominent statesmen to-day. His success in life is due entirely to his own indefatigable industry and exalted ambition. His incessant agitation of the chief interests of Nevada and the good he has accomplished for the State have no doubt won for him the deepest gratitude of the people he represents.

Senator Stewart's history is an interesting one. He began at the foot of the ladder and climbed to the top. His career shows what a youth of humble origin and poor, but ambitious, persevering, faithful and honest can accomplish in life. His life and career are worthy of emulation by the youth of Nevada. Gazing upon his picture, and contemplating his successful, useful and honorable career are sufficient inspiration to incite the students of this University to follow his example and course.

All matters pertaining to the welfare and progress of the University receive Senator Stewart's considerate attention. Whatever tends to the advancement of the institution, he seeks to gain for it. He is anxious and desirous that the youth of the State of Nevada should have as good facilities for acquiring an education as those of other States possess. Nothing, in his mind, is too good in an educational way for the children of Nevada. He relies on their energy, enterprise, industry and a sense of duty to make the State prosperous and to maintain it in its patriotism in the future. In Senator Stewart the University has a staunch friend, and one who is ever ready to display his friendship for it.

Now, Mr. President, Professors and students I present to your University this picture of Senator Stewart as a remembrance of him from himself.

At the conclusion of Mr. Kappler's speech President Jones responded on behalf of the University. The President's speech was happy, felicitous and one of the best of the many talks he has yet given to the students. He reviewed the work of the Senator for the school, and in a convincing manner appealed to the young men to emulate the example of one so worthy as Senator Stewart. His remarks were warmly received and highly appreciated and complimented by all who had the good fortune to hear him. The occasion was a pleasant one. In the years to come the portrait will adorn the walls of Nevada's University and be pointed to with pride by the generations yet to come.

IMPORTANT RULING.

The Grant in the State Does Not Include Mineral Lands.

The Secretary of the Interior has rendered a decision of some importance in the case of the Keystone Lode and Millsite Company against the State of Nevada. The case was on appeal from the decision of the Commissioner of the General Land Office. It involved mineral land near Carson which is claimed by the State under a grant from the United States. The Secretary says the grant from the United States to the State for school purposes, does not include mineral lands, as such lands by the settled policy of the Government, were excluded from all grants. The State cannot dispose of mineral lands, as it has no title to such lands, and title to those lands can only be acquired by patent direct from the United States.

A new and complete selection of spectacles and glasses of all kinds, including lenses for the near sighted at McCullough's drug store. Don't forget that F. Levy & Bro. are selling their immense stock of dry goods, etc., at lower prices than ever. For your note, letter, legal and foolscap paper, patronize C. J. Brookings, who also carries writing tablets of all styles and sizes. A new assortment of Heath & Milligan's paints, pure raw and boiled linseed oil and white lead at reduced prices at J. B. McCullough's. Stationery, cutlery, notions, also gentlemen's underwear and hats at A. Nelson's on Virginia street. Call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. The Palace Hotel, which is well and favorably known to every old Nevada, is being conducted as usual by that veteran landlord, Al White, who spares neither pains nor pains to provide for the comfort and convenience of guests. The Continental Insurance Co. of New York, capital and assets nearly $6,000,000, commences business in Nevada to-morrow. Mr. R. S. Osborn has been appointed the attorney for the company for the State, the Bank of Nevada general collectors and Mr. A. L. Moyer, State agent. Mr. Moyer will make Reno his home and will prove a liberal citizen. The company will make a specialty of the farm insurance business and will, judging from their 42 years experience in the business, make a success in Nevada.

Removed. The sample office of Wamamaker & Brown has been removed to the Fletcher building one door north of the Justice Court. The finest line of samples of ready made and tailor made clothing on exhibition. Prices lower than the lowest. Quality, fit, etc. guaranteed in every particular. Call and inspect the goods. $311

A LADY WITH— A Baby Complexion. Now, Mr. President, Professors and students I present to your University this picture of Senator Stewart as a remembrance of him from himself.

At the conclusion of Mr. Kappler's speech President Jones responded on behalf of the University. The President's speech was happy, felicitous and one of the best of the many talks he has yet given to the students. He reviewed the work of the Senator for the school, and in a convincing manner appealed to the young men to emulate the example of one so worthy as Senator Stewart. His remarks were warmly received and highly appreciated and complimented by all who had the good fortune to hear him. The occasion was a pleasant one. In the years to come the portrait will adorn the walls of Nevada's University and be pointed to with pride by the generations yet to come.

IMPORTANT RULING. The Grant in the State Does Not Include Mineral Lands. The Secretary of the Interior has rendered a decision of some importance in the case of the Keystone Lode and Millsite Company against the State of Nevada. The case was on appeal from the decision of the Commissioner of the General Land Office. It involved mineral land near Carson which is claimed by the State under a grant from the United States. The Secretary says the grant from the United States to the State for school purposes, does not include mineral lands, as such lands by the settled policy of the Government, were excluded from all grants. The State cannot dispose of mineral lands, as it has no title to such lands, and title to those lands can only be acquired by patent direct from the United States.

ENIGMA.

I wanted the sweep of the wild, wet weather. The wind's long lash and the rain's free fall. The loss of the trees as they creaked together. The measureless gray that was over them all. Whose roar speaks more than a language spoken.

Wordless and wonderful, cry on cry. The sob of an earth that is vexed and broken. The answering sob of a broken sky.

What should they tell us? We see them ever. The trees, and the eaves, and the stretch of the land. But they give us a word of their secret never. They tell no story we understand. Yet happily the ghostlike birch on yonder. Knows much in a silent and placid way: The rain might tell what the gray clouds ponder.

The winds repeat what the violets say. Why weeps the rain? Do you know its sorrow? Do you know why the wind is so sad, so sad? Have you stood in a rift 'twixt a day and a morrow. Seen their hands meet and their eyes grow dim? Is the tree's pride strong at its top's abasement? Is the white rose more of a saint than the land? What thinks the star as it sees through the casement. A young girl lying, beautiful, dead?

—Barry Pain.

A Pedestrian Feast.

If you desire to travel on foot through two kingdoms, two duchies and three principalities in the short space of five hours and ten minutes you have no need to transplant yourself to fairyland or put on a pair of seven league boots. The feat can be accomplished in the Fatherland without any great exertion. You select as your starting point the village of Steinbach, in the Bavarian district of Oberfranken, a station on the Gera-Saalfeld-Lichtenfels railway; from here you proceed in half an hour to Lichtenfels (Saxe-Meiningen), and an hour and a half later you arrive at Reichenbushausen (Reuss o. L.).

The next halting place, Gleim (Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt), can be reached in ten minutes, and half an hour's walk takes you to Altenburg (Reuss y. L.). From here you march on to Drogitz (Prussia) in an hour and a half, and in an equal space of time you reach the final stage of your journey, Saalfeld (Saxe-Altenburg).—Deutsche Verkehrszeitung.

Owls Kill Many Mice.

Mr. Nicholson has issued an appeal to landowners and country folk generally not to kill off every bird of prey, but instead of nailing the skin of an owl or a hawk on a barn door because it bears an evil name in the poultry yard, and is in the black books of the gamekeeper, to preserve it, within limits, at least as sedulously as the partridges and pheasants in whose interests it is destroyed. The barn owl (Aluco flammeus) is undeniably the farmer's friend and by no means the sportsman's enemy. From observations made during the nesting time it has been calculated that it will bring to its callow young a mouse about once every twelve or fifteen minutes, and as many as twenty good sized rats, perfectly fresh, have been counted in a single nest. A nest containing five owlets was placed under a hen coop, and no less than twenty-four rats, large and small, brought there by the parent birds, were found lying outside the coop the following morning.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

Destroyers of Grasshoppers.

There is a small reptile out west known as the fence lizard, which catches and eats a great many grasshoppers. The species is very common in the infested regions. Skunks are most active enemies of the insect and have been known to ascend trees for the purpose of catching them. For obvious reasons it will hardly be practicable to encourage these particular mammals, but no such objections would apply to toads, which are apt to swarm wherever the "hoppers" are, gobbling the latter greedily.

Many planters in California employ flocks of turkeys for the purpose of freeing their orchards and vineyards of grasshoppers. One turkey will destroy an almost incredible number in a single day. Incidentally the birds are fattened at the cheapest possible rate. They are so fond of such food that sometimes they devour too many and die of indigestion.—Washington Star.

The Lover's Lament.

Your face is like a drooping flower,
Sweetheart!
I see you fading, hour by hour,
Sweetheart!
Your rounded outlines waste away!
In vain I weep, in vain I pray,
What power Death's cruel hand can stay?
Sweetheart, Sweetheart!

Why, nothing but Dr. Fieroe's Favorite Prescription. It imparts strength to the failing system, cures organic troubles, and for debilitated and feeble women generally, is unequalled. "German Syrup"

For Throat and Lungs

"I have been ill for about five years, have had the best medical advice, and I took the first dose in some doubt. This result, 'ed in a few hours easy sleep. There was no further hemorrhage till next day, when I had a slight attack which stopped almost immediately. By the third day all trace of blood had disappeared and I had recovered much strength. The fourth day I sat up in bed and ate my dinner, the first solid food for two months. Since that time I have gradually gotten better and am now able to move about the house. My death was daily expected and my recovery has been a great surprise to my friends and the doctor. There can be no doubt about the effect of German Syrup, as I had an attack just previous to 'its use. The only relief was after 'the first dose.' J. R. LOUGHRAN, Adelaide, Australia."

G. J. BROOKINGS,

Hardly an Encore.

A quartet was giving a concert before the patients of the insane hospital and was singing a number into a rather mournful cadence and a subdued refrain. The audience, with the best of good humor, such as invariably characterizes the audiences at the hospital, heard it to the bitter end, and when its last note had died away an old lady with a virtuous and dignified air of reconciliation on her face popped suddenly up out of the audience, and turning to the stage said reverently, "O Lord! forgive them, for they know not what they do."—Levinston Journal.

The Daughter Speaks.

A lady, apparently of great wealth, had been for more than an hour imposing upon the unceasing endeavors of a patient saleswoman to fit with a ready-made costume the daughter of the "shopper," a child of about eight years. The hope of adding one more sale to her day's list buoyed the drooping spirits of the saleswoman and made her indefatigable in her efforts to please, but her hope was in vain, for her customer finally said, "Well, I will not decide now, but I will return this afternoon," whereupon her child quickly remarked, "Why, mamma, we won't have time to come back here and the nine other stores where you've promised the same thing today."—New York Recorder.

A Valuable Gold Piece.

In 1787 a goldsmith of the name of Brasher coined a sixteen dollar gold piece, which is now one of the rarest of coins, there being but four specimens of it known, all of which are held at $3,000 each. This rare piece has the well known motto stamped upon it in this mixed up form, "Unum E Pluribus."—Philadelphia Press.

In the year ended June 30, 1891, a tax was paid to the United States on more than 88,000,000 gallons of distilled spirits made in the country, and a duty was paid on a million gallons more imported from abroad.

There is a curious example of a repeating crossbow in the United Service museum, taken from the Taku forts, at which place the Chinese archers caused us heavy loss on the first occasion of the attack.

With many people, objects particularly ancient, of which no practical use is any longer recognized, have presumably one occult property attaching to them.

NO OTHER Sarsaparilla has effected such remarkable cures as HOOD'S Sarsaparilla, of Scrofula, Salt Rheum, and other blood diseases.

A DVERTISING IN THE DAILY AND WEEKLY

RENO JOURNAL, the largest circulation in Nevada, is the best medium for advertising in the State.

Ladies Do you want to keep your husband home at night, and keep him agreeable and pleasant? He must smoke, and yet, you don't like the smell of his tobacco. You can drive him away to his club—out of just such things come misery, unhappiness and divorce. The trouble is that he uses poor tobacco. Coax him to get BLACKWELL'S BULL DURHAM SMOKING TOBACCO; its delicate aroma will not be offensive to you, and it will not fill all the curtains, hangings and clothing with that stale disagreeable odor that now troubles you. Keep your husband home, and avoid all risks by having him smoke BULL DURHAM TOBACCO. Sold everywhere.
